

Darius of Media Atropatene (c. 70 B.C.)

ΔΑΡΕΙΟΣ

See the genealogy chart. The coins on this site are attributed according to Sellwood, 2nd edition (1980). However:

A. B. Nikitin maintains that Sellwood's types 35 and 36 were actually minted by Phraates III during the lifetime of his father Sinatruces which, Nikitin postulates, was a regular practice among the Arsacids.¹ Fred Shore gives the Sellwood types 35, 36 and 37 to Phraates III.²

Sellwood has later suggested that Darius, now believed to be only a provincial prince or governor, could not be responsible for the widespread issue of the type 35 and 36 coins from numerous mints. This must indicate these types were issued by another king with the requisite wider authority.³

Coins Attributed to Darius of Media Atropatene

I here maintain the Sellwood attributions for consistency, without anticipating the changes Sellwood is expected to make in his forthcoming revision to Introduction to the Coinage of Parthia.

Sellwood Type 36

There is an interesting anomaly on the Type 36 coins of Darius. A small number of coins clearly bear an earring and a separate web page presents the known examples of these coins. Click here to view the "earring coins of Darius".
